Case No. ________________

JURY TRIAL DEMANDED

COMPLAINT

Plaintiffs, through counsel, sue Defendants and allege:

INTRODUCTION

1. This case arises as a result of the actions of Defendants in funding, arming, and otherwise supporting terrorist organizations in Colombia in their campaign of terror against the civilian population of the Urabá region, in order to maintain its profitable control of Colombia's banana growing regions. The Defendants are former employees of Chiquita Brands International, Inc., who personally participated in Chiquita's financing of the Autodefensas Unidas de Colombia ("AUC"), a Colombian paramilitary terrorist organization. These six individuals are among the ten designated as Individuala A-J in the related criminal proceeding, U.S. v. Chiquita Brands International, Inc., 07-cr-055 (DDC) in which Chiquita pled guilty to the felony of Engaging in Transactions with a Specially Designated Global Terrorist. The Plaintiffs are family members of trade unionists, banana workers, political organizers, social activists, and others targeted and killed the AUC from the 1990s through 2007. In order to produce bananas in an environment free from labor opposition and social disturbances, Chiquita funded, armed, and otherwise supported the AUC. The deaths of Plaintiffs' relatives were a direct, foreseeable, and intended result of Chiquita's illegal and tortuous support of terrorist organizations. While the corporation itself is being sued under Colombian law in Multi District Litigaton centralized in the Southern District of Florida (Case No. 08-1916-MD-MARRA), the six individuals named herein are sued under the Torture Victim Protection Act, 28 USC § 1350 note.

JURISDICTION

2. The Court has jurisdiction over this case under 28 U.S.C. §1331 (federal question jurisdiction) and 28 U.S.C. § 1350 note (Torture Victim Protection Act. Plaintiffs and Defendants are citizens of different states, and the damages sought by this Complaint exceed the jurisdictional minimum for this Court for each plaintiff.

PARTIES

4. The term "Plaintiffs" herein includes the named plaintiffs and the decedent on behalf of whom they bring this action.

5. Plaintiffs include the next of kin and the estates of individuals killed in the Urabá region of Colombia between 1997 and 2007. These dates correspond to the dates between which Defendant Chiquita Brands has admitted paying the A.U.C. on a regular basis in criminal case 1:07-cr-055-RCL in D.C. District Court, and for about four years thereafter, which were not admitted.

6. The terms "wife" and "husband", as used herein, include common law spouses as well as those individuals married in a church but not obtaining a marriage license from the Colombian authorities. Male parental relationships for children born out of wedlock, such as "father", "daughter" and so forth, indicate that the father has given the child his surname and accepted the child as his own.

7. There are a total of 2146 decedents in this action, and 2146 estates in this complaint. 1653 of these individuals correspond to the plaintiffs and decedents in two related cases filed by the undersigned counsel against Chiquita Brands International, Inc. in D.C. District Court, which were subsequently transferred to the Southern District of Florida to become part of the Multi District Litigation case, 08-1916-CIV-MARRA. These are cases # 10-80652-CIV-MARRA and 11-80404-CIV-MARRA.

8. The plaintiffs referenced in the preceding and following paragraphs bring their claims anonymously because the disclosure of their identities and those of the decedents would expose them to a high risk of violent reprisals, intimidation and death at the hands of the paramilitaries still operating in Colombia.

9. Decedents are referred to as Decedent 1, Decedent 2, and so on, through Decedent 2146. Decedents' estates are referred to as Estate of Decedent 1, and so on. Next of kin and/or personal representatives corresponding to these Decedents are identified as Doe 1, Doe 2, and so on, with identification numbers of the Decedents, their Estates, and the Plaintiffs all corresponding to one another. The terms "John Doe" and "Jane Doe" have been dispensed with to simplify the complaint, since gender should not be pertinent to any of their claims.

10. For each of the 2146 cases joined herein, a minimum of details are provided, including the date of death, general address of the plaintiff, and the relationship between the next of kin and the decedent. This is done to protect the safety of the Plaintiffs. The undersigned counsel or his employees have interviewed each of the Doe Plaintiffs and summarized the details of each incident. For each case, there is at least circumstantial evidence that the AUC was responsible. In approximately 80% of the cases, the victim was executed by one or more shots to the head fired at short range. Approximately 15% of the cases involve disappearances. The process of identifying bodies in found common graves is ongoing in Colombia, and will take many years to complete. The remaining individuals were killed with machetes, pick-axes, poles, battery acid, or other means. In a large number of these cases, perhaps a majority, the AUC member who murdered the individual has confessed the crime in the Colombian Commission of Justice and Peace, a criminal judicial proceeding which is ongoing on Colombia.

11. Undersigned counsel believes that publishing further details about these murders, particularly in a single document, would assist Colombian paramilitaries in identifying the Plaintiffs in this case. Successor organizations to the AUC, such as the Urabeños and the Autodefensas Gaitanistas de Colombia, still control Urabá, still murder people on a weekly basis, and wield significant influence among the army and police there. Counsel believes that a protective order should be in place before sharing these details with Defendants, and that the issues presented will be factual ones properly determined at the summary judgment or trial stages. Furthermore, describing each of the 2146 individual incidents in detail would result in very lengthy Complaint. See Motion to Proceed under Pseudonyms and attached Exhibit, being filed contemporaneously with this complaint.

12. Each of the aforementioned decedents were at all material times citizens and residents of Colombia. Addresses for plaintiffs are given in subsequent paragraphs only to the level of detail of the town or county (municipio) in which they live. This is done to protect their safety. In addition, plaintiffs live in an underdeveloped jungle region of Colombia where houses are often not numbered. Many, if not a majority, of the plaintiffs in this action do not have telephones. A substantial number of them are illiterate.

13. One or more of the next of kin referenced in the subsequent paragraphs assert their claims herein, or alternatively, a third party will be appointed the personal representative of the decedent's estate if required by law. This action is brought on behalf of Does number 1-2146 and by the next of kin of those who were murdered. Each of the next of kin and decedents were at all material times citizens of Colombia.

Defendant Ordman is also the individual referred to as Chiquita Employee #2 in the investigation of Chiquita's Special Litigation Committee. According to the SLC Report, Defendant Ordman was employed by Chiquita Brands from 1975-2006, including as Senior Vice President of European Banana Sourcing for the Chiquita Fresh Group, reporting to Defendant Kistinger. Defendant Ordman was involved in the illegal payments from the very beginning, and personally handled the cash.

2174. Following the initial payment, regular payments were made, mostly to the FARC but also to other guerrilla groups. Id. These payments were reviewed periodically by Defendant Ordman. Id. [Banadex Employee #1] told the SLC that Defendant Ordman and himself were two intermediaries that Banadex used to make the illegal payments. Id. at 36. According to notes from another Chiquita employee, Bud White, Defendants Ordman and Kistinger approved the payments on an ongoing basis. Id. at 52. Defendant Ordman was also involved in the bribery scandal involving the port of Turbo, which was later investigated by the SEC. Id. at 56-57. The SEC investigation revealed Defendant Ordman's involvement in payments to the AUC as well, which he admitted in his testimony. Id. at 59.

2175. In March 2002, Defendant Ordman and another Chiquita employee designed procedures for making cash payments to the AUC in Santa Marta. Id. at 80. After the payments to the AUC had been suspended for two months in May 2003 due to internal discussions, Defendant Ordman participated in restarting them. On or about May 5, 2003, Defendant Raymer instructed Defendant Ordman to "continue making payments" to the AUC. Proffer at ¶ 64. All of the conduct described herein either occurred in Cincinnatti, Ohio or was related to this District, where the case arose. Mr. Ordman's address is known.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

A. The Colombian Conflict and Paramilitary Terrorist Organizations

2177. In the early 1980s, Colombia saw a vast expansion in trade in illegal drugs, particularly cocaine. An emerging class of drug barons, with the cooperation and facilitation of the Colombian government, began to create private armies to combat left-wing guerrilla forces, including the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia (Fuerzas Armadas Revolucionarias de Colombia, or FARC) the National Liberation Army (Ejercito Nacional de Liberacion, or ELN), and the (Ejercito Popular de Liberación, or EPL) who were engaged in terrorist activities such as extortion, kidnappings, and assassinations. Despite their ties to private individuals, the paramilitaries were a key part of the Colombian state strategy to combat the guerrilla insurgency from their inception.

2179. By the mid 1990's, paramilitary groups had achieved a substantial degree of independence from their creators due to their increased participation in, and benefit from, drug trafficking, and had become a major force in the fight against the guerrillas. The largest and most well-organized paramilitary group in Colombia was the Rural Self-Defense Group of Córdoba and Urabá (Autodefensas Campesinas de Córdoba and Urabá, or ACCU). The organization featured a central command that coordinated the activities of local fronts. Both mobile and stationary units existed, and fighters received a base salary plus food, a uniform, weapons, and munitions. The commander-in-chief of the ACCU was Carlos Castaño, a long-time paramilitary fighter with family ties to the drug trade. In 1994, Castaño and the ACCU sponsored a summit of paramilitary groups in Rialto, Colombia, bringing together regional paramilitaries from across the country. This summit led to the formation of the AUC, a national federation uniting Colombia's regional paramilitaries under Castaño's leadership. Castaño remained the leader of the AUC until his death in April 16, 2004.

2180. The efforts of the AUC were directed toward elimination of anyone considered close to the guerrillas or who opposed or complicated the paramilitaries' control of territory or population in the area in which they exerted their power. The AUC's primary method was terrorism against individuals or communities. To this end, the AUC, like the ACCU before it, routinely engaged in death threats, extrajudicial killings, massacres, torture, rape, kidnapping, forced disappearances, and looting. While the AUC periodically engaged in direct combat with armed guerrilla forces, the vast majority of its victims were civilians targeted by a policy of political and social cleansing, typically rural workers, trade unionists, community activists, human rights defenders, leftist politicians, judicial investigators, indigenous persons, and anyone considered socially undesirable (including suspected petty criminals). Plaintiff's counsel has no knowledge that any of the decedents in this case were actual guerrilla combatants, and many clearly were not.

2181. Inhabitants of small towns in contested rural areas were particularly vulnerable. AUC violence has often caused entire communities to disperse, either due to threats of an impending massacre or in the wake of such massacres and the looting and destruction that commonly accompanied them.

AUC leaders have claimed before the demobilization process beginning in 2004, the organization comprised as many as 17,000 armed fighters and 10,000 other associates, including informants, cooks, drivers, and computer technicians.

2183. Despite their officially illegal status, the AUC and other paramilitary groups in fact collaborated closely with the Colombian government and were used by the government to oppose anti-government guerrilla groups like the FARC. The efforts of the AUC were directed toward the elimination of any alleged guerrilla sympathizer who opposed or complicated the paramilitaries' control of territory or population in the area in which they exerted their power, or threatened their allies - including the government and the banana companies. The AUC's primary method was terrorism against individuals or communities. To this end, the AUC, like the ACCU before it, routinely engaged in death threats, extrajudicial killings, attacks on civilian populations, torture, rape, kidnapping, forced disappearances, and looting.

2184. While the AUC periodically engaged in direct combat with armed guerrilla forces, the vast majority of its victims were civilians. The AUC claimed that it was justified in targeting civilians with no known ties to guerrillas because guerrilla groups required the logistical support of local towns in order to operate in the region. They sought to intimidate and coerce the civilians from providing any support to the guerrillas. Inhabitants of small towns in contested rural areas were particularly vulnerable to AUC attack. AUC violence has often caused entire communities to disperse, either due to threats of an impending massacre or in the wake of such massacres and the looting and destruction that commonly accompanied them. Plaintiffs' counsel has taken evidence from victims of at least thirty massacres in the Urabá region. Eventually, international pressure caused the AUC to abandon this technique in favor of killing their victims one by one, sometimes even moving the victims to separate locations so that the murders would not be counted as massacres.

2185. The AUC also targeted anyone considered to share the guerrillas' leftist ideology, such as teachers, community leaders, trade unionists, human rights defenders, religious workers, and leftist politicians. These groups were also seen as problem groups by the banana companies. The AUC also eliminated anyone considered socially undesirable, including indigenous persons, people with psychological problems and other disabilities, drug addicts, prostitutes, and suspected petty criminals. These social cleansing programs continue in Urabá even today.

2186. The abuses of the AUC and its constituent groups, including the ACCU, covered a large area, affected a large population, and were carried out according to a systematic and wellcoordinated plan between the government, the paramilitaries, and the companies that financed them. The ACCU operated throughout the banana-growing region of Urabá, as well as in other parts of Colombia. On many occasions from at least 1994 through 2004 they carried out multiple executions or mass-killings of civilians; by 1997, the ACCU and other AUC groups were already responsible for at least 150 such atrocities across Colombia. From its founding, the AUC's activities and abuses have been carried out under the direction of a central command.

2187. The AUC and its constituent groups, including the ACCU, have, at least since 1994, been participating in an internal armed conflict in Colombia - a conflict in which the paramilitaries are fighting on behalf of the government against guerrilla forces.

2188. The AUC operated two Blocks in Urabá, the Banana Block and the Elmer Cardenas Block. While there had been paramilitaries under the control of the Castaño family in Urabá since the 1980s, the Banana Block was formally created in Urabá in 1994. Ever Veloza García - a/k/a "H.H." - was selected as one of the first commanders. In later years, the Banana Block operated through two fronts: the Turbo Front in Northern Urabá under the command of H.H., and the Banana Front in the south, led by Raúl Hasbún. The Elmer Cardenas Block was created from elements of its predecessor, the Northwestern Block (Bloque Noroccidental) the Casa Castano in the town of Necocli, and elements of Raul Hasbun's Frente Arlex Hurtado of the Banana Block. The Elmer Cardenas Block was commanded by Freddy Rendón Herrera - a/k/a "El Alemán" - and Elmer Cárdenas until Cárdenas was killed by the guerrillas in 1997. The Elmer Cardenas Block also received men, training, and assistance from the Banana Block. Both Blocks received funding from the banana companies directly or through the Convivir Papagayo. In addition, a substantial number of Maoist guerrillas of the Ejercito Popular de Liberacion (Popular Liberation Army, or EPL), later known as Esperanza, Paz y Libertad (Hope, Peace and Liberty, also EPL) joined the AUC after their deadly rivalry with the FARC made preservation of their own lives a higher priority than ideology.

B. The Creation of Convivir Groups to Legitimize the Paramilitaries

2189. Although paramilitarism had been declared illegal in Colombia, the Colombian government created a legal mechanism to provide cover and a legitimate avenue of funding for fund the AUC in 1994 through Chapter 5 of Decree 356. Paramilitaries could easily reorganize and continue operating under this Chapter, which allowed private groups to provide for "Special Vigilance and Private Security Services." These security groups, known commonly by their Spanish-language term "Convivir," (meaning "to coexist") were comprised of civilians who received permission from the government for a license to "provide their own security. . . in areas of high risk or in the public interest, which requires a high level of security." Convivir groups were permitted to use arms that were otherwise restricted to use by the military. Defense Ministry, Decree 356, República de Colombia, February 11, 1994, pp. 19- 20; and Resolution 368 of the Superintendencia de Vigilancia y Seguridad Privada, April 27, 1995 (giving the name "convivir" to the security groups).

2190. The convivir units in Urabá were fronts for the AUC from their inception. Many were directed and populated by known paramilitaries; this was common knowledge in the region. As H.H. remarked publicly, "Let us not deceive ourselves: all the convivir were ours." The 17th Brigade of the Colombian Armed Forces, which was infamous for its close collaboration with the paramilitaries in Urabá, was given the authority to select members of the convivir in Urabá.

2193. The convivir groups in Urabá facilitated communication and collaboration between the government and paramilitaries. The twelve units functioned as a network and sent intelligence information to both the military and paramilitary commanders such as Raul Hasbún. The military and paramilitaries would both respond to information detailing the location of guerrillas, but often the military would allow the paramilitaries to execute the operations, as they had better resources.

2194. One unit, the Papagayo Convivir, received payments from Chiquita and other banana companies and passed the money on to the AUC. The banana companies characterized the payments as security services, but on information and belief, all the banana companies knew that these payments were going to the AUC in order to kill workers and other civilians.

2195. In 1997, the Colombian Constitutional Court affirmed the legality of the convivir system but prohibited them from carrying restricted arms or conducting intelligence work. Many convivir groups were dismantled as they did not have a function once these measures were implemented. The Papagayo Convivir was one of only two convivir groups that remained, allowing it to continue facilitating the payments from the banana companies to the AUC. Arnulfo Peñuela, the former director of the Convivir Papagayo and former mayor of Carepa, a town in Urabá, is being prosecuted for ties to the AUC.

C. The AUC Acted Under Color of Authority of the Colombian Government in Committing the Acts Alleged Herein

2198. Paramilitarism was State policy in the Republic of Colombia. The Colombian military was not able to effectively address the uprising of the FARC, so the Colombian government facilitated the creation and funding of the AUC with the aim of using this unofficial force to defeat the FARC. As one high commander of the AUC said, "the Colombian military felt itself bound to the Geneva Conventions. The AUC was not." This policy of strengthening the paramilitaries was first developed in Urabá in 1995 to 1997, and then exported to the rest of the country.

2200. To date, Colombian authorities have charged members of Colombia's Congress, former lawmakers, the head of the secret police, mayors and former governors with illegally collaborating with paramilitaries. Senior officers in the Colombian military, including but not limited to former Military Forces Commanders Major General Manuel Bonett, General Harold Bedoya, Vice Admiral Rodrigo Quinones, Gen. Jaime Uscategui, Gen. Rito Alejo Del Rio, General Mario Montoya, Colonel Danilo Gonzalez, Major Walter Fratinni and Defense Minister Juan Manuel Santos, collaborated with, facilitated, aided and abetted the AUC in the commission of various attacks on civilian populations, extrajudicial killings and other atrocities against civilians, including the plaintiffs, and/or gave tacit support to and acquiescence in their activities. General Montoya was linked to Diego Fernando Murillo Bejarano (a.k.a. "Don Berna"), successor to Pablo Escobar and former leader of an AUC-affiliated paramilitary group in Medellin. The presence in the military of high ranking staff officers known to have close ties to the AUC and other paramilitaries was widely regarded within the army as tolerance for the paramilitaries.

2201. Boundaries between the AUC and the military at times were amorphous, as some paramilitary members were former police or army members, while some active-duty military members moonlighted as paramilitary members and became thoroughly integrated into the groups. Paramilitary leaders noted that Colombian security forces in Urabá allowed members of the AUC to serve as proxies in their pursuit of guerrilla forces, largely due to the military's operative incapacity to defeat the guerrillas on its own. As outside organizations placed increasing pressure and scrutiny upon the military to improve its human rights record, military leaders decided to leave much of their "dirty work" - brutal violence against civilians and suspected paramilitaries in violation of Colombian and international law - to the paramilitaries.

2202. Colombian security forces in Urabá - with the knowledge and collaboration of high-level officials in the national government - have therefore habitually tolerated the presence of the AUC, willfully failed to prevent or interrupt their crimes, actively conspired with them, and coordinated activities with them. Documented examples in Urabá include:

A. Allowing paramilitaries to establish permanent bases and checkpoints without interference, often within short distance of military bases for mutual support;

B. Failing to carry out arrest warrants for paramilitary leaders, who move about the country freely;

C. Withdrawing security forces from villages deemed sympathetic to guerrillas, leaving them vulnerable to attack by paramilitaries;

D. Failing to intervene to stop ongoing attacks on civilian populations occurring over a period of days;

E. Sharing intelligence, including the names of suspect guerrilla collaborators;

F. Sharing vehicles, including army trucks used to transport paramilitary fighters;

G. Supplying weapons and munitions;

H. Allowing passage through roadBlockks;

I. Providing support with helicopters and medical aid;

J. Communicating via radio, cellular telephones, and beepers;

K. Sharing members, including active-duty soldiers serving in paramilitary units and paramilitary commanders lodging on military bases; and

L. Planning and carrying out joint operations.

2203. Accordingly, the AUC became a major combatant in Colombia's civil conflict with the FARC. In most of the rural areas where the FARC had its strongholds, the Colombian military had ceded military operations to the AUC. By 2001, the conflict between the AUC and the FARC had become a notorious exchange of atrocities. The AUC, using tactics of terror on civilians living in and around areas that had been under FARC control, assumed that these innocents were sympathetic to the FARC and systematically murdered thousands of them.

D. The AUC Consistently Operated in Urabá with the Cooperation, Coordination, and Assistance of the Colombian Government When Attacking Civilians

2204. The paramilitaries and the government developed and perfected a model of collaboration in Urabá. Politicians, active military units, companies, businessmen, and paramilitaries formed an alliance in order to impose a regime of terror and consolidate a new form of governance, which would wrest control of the countryside back from the leftist guerrillas who had captured many municipalities and were extorting businessmen and landowners. The first paramilitary groups to operate in Urabá in a systematic and continuous manner received special military training.

2205. When the government or the military was not able to legally arrest or attack civilians, they would delegate the task to the AUC or to convivir associated with the paramilitaries to act on their behalf. According to both H.H. and Raúl Hasbún, a paramilitary commander in Urabá, the military gave the AUC lists of people to kill when they felt impotent to fight the guerrillas themselves legally and constitutionally, or when they could not arrest and try them for any crime.

2207. The AUC in Urabá consistently ran joint operations with the military. The 17th Brigade of the Colombian Army, located in the Urabá region, and the 4th Brigade, sister unit to the 17th Brigade operating in the Medellin region, were especially active in their support of and involvement in paramilitaries, which include engaging in joint operations. For example, the Elmer Cardenas Block of the AUC received logistical support and transportation from the 17th Brigade and other units of the Colombian army and conducted joint operations.

2208. General Rito Alejo del Río Rojas, the commander of the 17th Brigade from 1995-1996 who was responsible for military operations in Urabá, was notorious for his collaboration and collusion with paramilitaries in the region. H.H. has described General Del Río as one of the most important factors in allowing the expansion of paramilitarism in Urabá, because of the cooperation and support he gave the AUC in the regions where the 17th Brigade operated and elsewhere. General del Río was known as the "father of the paramilitaries" because he gave them uniforms and military training. One of his first acts as commander of the 17th Brigade was to establish a military checkpoint at a tunnel passing through the Cañon de Llorona near to Dabeiba in Urabá. The responsibility for maintaining this checkpoint was soon taken over by the AUC. Dozens of the Decedents in the instant action were murdered at this location by the AUC and thrown into the river.

2209. General del Río is currently in custody on a military base in Bogota and is on trial for his collaboration with the AUC. He is accused of conspiracy to murder and perjury in relation to a previous investigation of General del Río in which he was accused of ordering his men to patrol alongside the AUC, and for presenting civilians murdered by the AUC as guerrillas killed in combat. The prior investigation was dismissed. H.H. has testified that he twice witnessed Del Río meeting with the founder and national commander of the AUC, Carlos Castaño. Salvatore Mancuso, who succeeded Castaño as national commander, testified that Del Río met with him and other commanders to coordinate the paramilitaries' expansion throughout northern Colombia.

2210. AUC paramilitaries could enter and leave the 17th Brigade's headquarters at will, with the knowledge and permission of General del Río. In one instance, H.H. discovered that an individual the AUC was searching for was being held at the Brigade headquarters; he and others from the AUC went to the 17th Brigade, picked up the prisoner, transported him to the port at Turbo using a military van, and murdered him. Salvatore Mancuso reported a similar story. Furthermore, on his visits to the 17th Brigade - during which he often planned joint operations with General del Río and then-Captain Bayron Carvajal, H.H. was consistently allowed to recruit soldiers for the AUC.

2211. General del Río's role in promoting and supporting paramilitarism was not merely the work of a single rogue military officer; rather it was part of the Colombian government's strategy to fight the guerrillas. Many other army brigades had similar relationships with paramilitaries, including the 11th Brigade. Gloria Cuartas, then the mayor of Apartadó, and others, complained repeatedly and provided evidence to the General's superiors about his collusion with paramilitaries, but their complaints were ignored. Colonel Carlos Alfonso Velasquez Romero, a 17th Brigade officer, was investigated and discharged in January 1997 on the order of Army Commander Harold Bedoya when he tried to report on the General and the 17th Brigade's close association with the AUC.

2214. On February 19, 2000, the AUC selectively assassinated five banana workers in the "peace community" of San Jose de Apartadó, in Urabá, and reports indicated that members of the 17th Brigade were direct participants in the attack.

2215. When asked to rank their collaboration between the AUC and the Colombian military on a scale of one to 10, H.H. rated it as a 10, with 10 being maximum collaboration, specifically citing the helpfulness of General del Río and Colonel Carvajal.

2216. This model of collaboration between the paramilitaries, the companies, and the government was so successful in Urabá that Raúl Hasbún explained it to Jorge 40, commander of the AUC in Magdalena, so he could implement it in that region. Thereafter, the model spread to many other regions of Colombia.

2217. The AUC took on numerous state functions in Urabá, including the maintenance of security and order, the disposition of personal and commercial disputes, the provision and regulation of social services, and the imposition of social rules. The AUC was the de facto government of Urabá and other regions in Colombia.

2218. Banana companies and others paid taxes to the AUC in order to protect themselves and their investments. They also dispensed justice in disputes between individuals, punished individuals viewed as criminals, and became involved in social issues. The paramilitary organization's involvement in residents' daily lives reached the extent of intervention in domestic issues, disputes between neighbors, collection of debts, and truancy from school. Of primary importance was the control of traffic on roads through the jungle region of Uraba. Checkpoints on all major roads were (and at times, still are) maintained by the paramilitaries, to screen travelers for wanted persons, and to control the flow of cocaine, which the AUC taxed to finance their activities.

2220. Workers faced harsh living and working conditions on the banana farms in the 1960s and 1970s. Urabá's first unions, Sintrabanano and Sintagro, were founded in the 1960s and 1970s. However, the banana growers maintained control by killing and firing any organized workers. The army occupied banana plantations and assisted banana growers by arresting union leaders or forcing laborers to work during strikes.

2221. Two anti-government guerrilla groups, the FARC and the EPL, became active in Urabá as a result of the labor struggles in the 1980s. The FARC took control of Sintrabanano and EPL infiltrated Sintagro. The guerrillas forced the banana companies to accept unions and negotiate with the workers. By 1985, the two guerrilla groups began competing for workers to join their unions in order to gain more territorial control, forming mutually opposed "EPL farms" and "FARC farms." In 1988, however, they agreed to unite under the combined Sintrainagro union; by the end of 1989, they had achieved wage increases and managed to call attention to the problem of poor housing conditions.

2222. The success of the unions was accompanied by increased paramilitary violence, and many unionists were murdered during strikes and attempted negotiations. Sintrainagro lost many members in the violence, including some of its most active and radical leaders. This precipitated a new split in Sintrainagro. EPL leaders in the union believed that the only way to save the union was to associate with the paramilitaries. Many EPL guerrillas demobilized in 1991, forming a new EPL party and signing a "social pact" with the banana growers and Sintrainagro to collaborate on regional development. Banana growers provided 23 million pesos for the reinsertion process. The paramilitaries encouraged Sintrainagro's alignment with the banana growers and paramilitaries by killing any outspoken leaders advocating for workers' rights. The FARC, in turn, massacred many of the demobilized EPL guerrillas to discourage their alignment with the banana growers.

2223. After the formation of the ACCU's Banana Block in 1994, the intra-union violence increased. The paramilitaries took advantage of the internal battle between guerrilla forces, working with the government in the final EPL reinsertions and in the process convincing many demobilized EPL guerrillas to join their side and continue fighting the FARC. The war intensified, as government forces and their paramilitary allies used increased violence against the FARC and any suspected guerrilla sympathizers. As Carlos Castaño boasted, by the late 1990s the AUC achieved their goals of expelling the FARC from Urabá and suppressing the unions, such that no strikes occurred on the banana plantations.

2224. Urabá was also used by the paramilitaries and guerrillas for their drug and arms trade. The proximity of Urabá to the Panamanian border, and its isolation from the central government made Urabá a strategic location for such illicit markets, and therefore Urabá was an important location for the success of both the guerrillas and paramilitaries, both of whom participated in the illicit trade in drugs and arms.

E. Chiquita's Support of the AUC

2225. Chiquita, as the successor to the United Fruit Company and the Frutera Sevilla company, has been involved in the production and exportation of produce from Central and South American nations, including Colombia, for over a century. At all relevant times, Chiquita produced bananas in the Urabá region of Colombia.

2227. Chiquita's assistance helped the paramilitaries to consolidate as a decisive actor in the political, military, and social terrain of the banana region. In exchange for its financial support to the AUC, Chiquita was able to operate in an environment in which labor and community opposition to their operations and policies was suppressed.

2228. From 1995 until at least February 2004, Chiquita provided material support to the

AUC in Urabá. By 1997, the AUC effectively controlled large swathes of territory - particularly in the towns and urban areas - as well as exerting influence in institutions such as labor organizations and local governments in these regions.

2229. In 1995 and 1996, Chiquita made payments to the ACCU's Banana Block.

2230. Chiquita paid the AUC nearly every month during the period 1997-2004, making over one hundred payments to the AUC, totaling over $1.7 million. During those years, the AUC killed an estimated 3,700 people and displaced approximately 60,000 in its war on the guerrillas.

2231. Chiquita's payments to the AUC were reviewed and approved by senior executives of the corporation, including high-ranking officers, directors, and employees. Chiquita's senior executives knew that the corporation was paying the AUC and that the AUC was a violent, paramilitary organization led by Carlos Castaño.

2232. Some of Chiquita's payments were made directly to the AUC or to front organizations like the Papagayo Convivir. The majority of direct payments were made in the form of checks written to the convivir, drawn on Banadex's Colombian bank account. Chiquita concealed the nature of these payments by recording them in corporate books and records as "security payments" or payments for "security" or "security services."

2233. In September 2000, the results of an investigation into Chiquita's payments to the AUC, which had been carried out by in-house Chiquita attorneys, were reported to the company's Audit Committee. By March 2002, individuals who had been present at the presentation of the investigation implemented new procedures with regard to Chiquita's payments to the AUC. Under the new procedures, Banadex executives received checks with the intent that they would be withdrawn as cash and handed directly to the AUC.

The individuals who received the checks withheld the corresponding tax liability and reported and paid income tax as if the payments were actually being made to them. Chiquita made payments in this way in order to conceal the fact that they were paying the AUC; it recorded these payments simply as income contributions.

2235. At all relevant times, Chiquita knew that the AUC was a violent terrorist paramilitary organization, as its brutal aims and tactics were a well-known feature of the Colombian civil war. On September 10, 2001, the United States government designated the AUC as a Foreign Terrorist Organization ("FTO"). That designation was well-publicized in the American public media, including in the Cincinnati Post on October 6, 2001, and in the Cincinnati Enquirer on October 17, 2001, as well as in the Colombian media.

2236. On October 31, 2001, theSecretary of State of the United States designated the AUC as a Specially-Designated Global Terrorist. As a result of the SDGT designation, it has been a crime for any United States person to, among other things, willfully to engage in transactions with the AUC, without having first obtained a license or other authorization from the Office of Foreign Assets Control.

2237. In 2003, Chiquita consulted with attorneys from the District of Columbia office of a national law firm ("outside counsel") about Chiquita's ongoing payments to the AUC. Outside counsel advised Chiquita that the payments were illegal under United States law and that Chiquita should immediately stop paying the AUC directly or indirectly. Among other things, outside counsel advised Chiquita:

> "Must stop payments."
> (notes, dated February 21, 2003)
> "Bottom Line: CANNOT MAKE THE PAYMENT"
> "Advised NOT TO MAKE ALTERNATIVE PAYMENT through CONVIVIR"
> "General Rule: Cannot do indirectly what you cannot do directly"
> "Concluded with: CANNOT MAKE THE PAYMENT"
> (memo, dated February 26, 2003)
> "You voluntarily put yourself in this position. Duress defense can wear out through repetition. Buz [business] decision to stay in harm's way. CHIQUITA should leave Colombia."
> (notes, dated March 10, 2003)
> "[T]he company should not continue to make the Santa Marta payments, given the AUC's designation as a foreign terrorist organization[.]"
> (memo, dated March 11, 2003)
> [T]he company should not make the payment."
> (memo, dated March 27, 2003)

2238. Although CBI's Board of Directors agreed to disclose its payments to the AUC to the U.S. Department of Justice on or about April 3, 2003, on April 8, 2003, CBI instructed Banadex to continue making the payments to the AUC. On April 24, 2003, CBI met with Justice Department officials, who told CBI the payments were illegal.

2239. Defendant Chiquita continued to pay the AUC after it was designated a Foreign Terrorist Organization, until at least February 2004.

2240. On March 19, 2007, Chiquita pled guilty in U.S. District Court for the District of Colombia to one count of engaging in transactions with a specially designated global terrorist.

2241. The company's sentence included a $25 million criminal fine, the requirement to implement and maintain an effective compliance and ethics program, and five years' probation.

1. Chiquita' facilitation of the AUC's arms shipments

2242. In 2001, Chiquita facilitated the clandestine and illegal transfer of arms and ammunition from Nicaragua to the AUC.

2245. After the Otterloo docked at Chiquita's port in Turbo, Banadex employees unloaded crates containing the assault rifles and ammunition. On information and belief, the AUC, which had free access to the port, then loaded these rifles onto AUC vehicles and took possession of them.

2246. Chiquita was aware of the use of its facilities for the illegal transshipment of arms to the AUC, and intended to provide such support and assistance to the AUC. The documents accompanying the shipment declared that the crates that in fact contained arms were filled with plastic and/or rubber balls. However, in unloading the crates, the Banadex employees used heavy lifting machinery that would not have been necessary to move the crates' declared cargo. After being off-loaded, the crates then remained at Chiquita's facilities for at least two additional days before fourteen AUC vehicles arrived to take possession of the arms. At least some of the arms were received by Freddy Rendón Herrera, the commander of the Elmer Cárdenas Blockk of the AUC in Urabá.

2249. On at least one occasion, José Leonardo Lopez Valencia, an electrical mechanic at Turbo, witnessed uniformed AUC members offloading crates directly from a Chiquita ship. On information and belief, those crates contained smuggled firearms.

2250. In an interview with the Colombian newspaper El Tiempo, AUC leader Carlos Castaño subsequently boasted, "This is the greatest achievement by the AUC so far. Through Central America, five shipments, 13 thousand rifles."

2251. The arms that Chiquita knowingly and intentionally aided the AUC to procure have been of substantial assistance to the AUC in its commission of untold crimes, including the killings and other conduct alleged herein. Many of these guns have not been turned in to the government and are still in use by the AUC. In 2008, some were seized in Urabá from the Daniel Rendón Herrera's 'Heroes de Castaño' Front - another AUC subunit. The raid, executed by Colombian authorities, netted hand grenades, mortar rounds, Claymore mines, electrical detonators, and 47 AK-47 assault rifles; the assault rifles were traced to the 2001 Otterloo shipment.

2. Chiquita's Facilitation of the AUC's Drug Shipments

2253. Colombian prosecutors have charged that the AUC shipped drugs on Chiquita's boats carrying bananas to Europe. According to H.H., the AUC would tie drugs to the hulls of banana ships at high sea to evade the control points of the security agencies.

2255. On information and belief, drug shipments could not have been attached to Chiquita's banana boats without the active collusion or willful ignorance of Chiquita employees. These employees could have prevented this drug trade and assistance to the AUC, but knowingly and purposely allowed use of Chiquita's port and banana transportation boats for this purpose.

F. Chiquita's Conduct Aided and Abetted the AUC's Conduct Alleged Herein

2258. Chiquita's payments and facilitation of drug shipments contributed significantly to the perpetration of the crimes committed by the AUC by improving its financial situation and enabling it to purchase weapons and other war materiel.

2259. Payments from Chiquita and other banana companies constituted a significant portion of the AUC's budget in some areas.

2260. In addition to Chiquita's payments and facilitation of drug shipments, its assistance to the AUC in smuggling arms substantially and directly increased the paramilitaries' capacity to carry out atrocities.

2261. Most of the firearms that were transferred to the AUC from the Otterloo shipment have never been recovered and, are still in the hands of the AUC, where they and other similarly obtained firearms have been used in the commission of the war crimes, crimes against humanity, and other violations alleged in this complaint. Some weapons from this shipment were turned in to authorities by the Bloque Elmer Cardenas when it demobilized in 2005.

2262. Chiquita knew that its actions would assist in the illegal or wrongful activity and other conduct alleged herein at the time it provided the assistance. Chiquita knew that its actions would assist in the killings. The AUC's use of violent tactics, including extrajudicial killings, to terrorize innocent civilians living in areas under FARC control was well known in Colombia and was widely reported in the press in Colombia and the United States. In 1997, for example, the State Department noted:

> [t]he many paramilitary groups took the offensive against the guerrillas, often perpetrating targeted killings, massacres, and forced displacements of the guerrillas' perceived or alleged civilian support base . . . An active policy of depopulation, pursued by some paramilitary groups against communities suspected of guerrilla support, was the primary cause of the growing internal displacement problem.

United States Department of State, 1997 Human Rights Report: Colombia, at 2.

In 1999, the State Department noted:

> Paramilitary groups and guerrillas were responsible for the vast majority of political and extrajudicial killings during the year. Throughout the country, paramilitary groups killed, tortured and threatened civilians suspected of sympathizing with guerrillas in an orchestrated campaign to terrorize them into fleeing their homes, thereby depriving guerrillas of civilian support. The AUC paramilitary umbrella organization . . . exercised increasing influence during the year, extending its presence through violence and intimidation into areas previously under guerrilla control.

Id. at 2.

2263. The United States government designated the AUC as a Foreign Terrorist Organization on September 10, 2001, and that designation was well-publicized in the American public media. The AUC's designation was even more widely reported in the public media in Colombia, where Chiquita had its substantial banana-producing operations.

2264. Chiquita had information about the AUC's designation as an FTO specifically and global security threats generally through an Internet-based, password-protected subscription service that Chiquita paid money to receive. On or about September 30, 2002, a Chiquita employee, from a computer within defendant Chiquita's Cincinnati headquarters, accessed this service's "Colombia - Update page," which contained the following reporting on the AUC:

> "US terrorist designation. International condemnation of the AUC human rights abuses culminated in 2001 with the US State Department's decision to include the paramilitaries in its annual list of foreign terrorist organizations. This designation permits the US authorities to implement a range of measures against the AUC, including denying AUC members US entry visas; freezing AUC bank accounts in the US; and barring US companies from contact with the personnel accused of AUC connections."

2265. From on or about September 10, 2001, through on or about February 4, 2004, Chiquita made 50 payments to the AUC totaling over $825,000. Chiquita never applied for nor obtained any license from the Department of the Treasury's Office of Foreign Assets Control with respect to any of its payments to the AUC.

2266. On or about February 20, 2003, two Chiquita officials had a conversation about one official's discovery that the AUC had been designated by the United States government as a Foreign Terrorist Organization. Shortly thereafter, the two officials spoke with outside counsel about Chiquita's ongoing payments to the AUC.

2267. Outside counsel advised Chiquita, through the two officials, that the payments were illegal under United States law and that Chiquita should immediately stop paying the AUC directly or indirectly.

2268. Despite the February 26, 2003 communication from counsel advising Defendants against making payments to the AUC, on or about February 27, 2003, two Chiquita employees in Colombia paid the AUC in Urabá by check in an amount equivalent to $17,434.

2269. Despite the March 27, 2003 communication from counsel advising Defendants against making payments to the AUC, on or about March 27, 2003, the same two employees paid the AUC in Urabá by check in an amount equivalent to $19,437.

2270. Chiquita intended that its actions would assist the AUC in committing the specific acts alleged in the complaints - to target and kill civilians and union members in Urabá.

2271. Chiquita's acts of assistance to the AUC were made with the intent that the AUC carry out the acts of killing and other conduct alleged herein. In exchange for its financial support to the AUC, Chiquita was able to operate in an environment in which labor and community opposition was suppressed. Chiquita's assistance was not given out of duress; rather it was part and parcel of the company's proactive strategy to increase profitability and suppress labor unrest by exterminating the FARC in the Urabá region.

2272. Chiquita, along with other banana companies in Colombia, sought a meeting with the paramilitaries in late 1996 or early 1997. The meeting took place in Medellín, and a high level U.S. Chiquita employee was present. It was decided at this meeting that the banana companies would pay the paramilitaries. Carlos and Vicente Castaño led the negotiations with the companies; as a result of the negotiations, H.H. was ordered to patrol the entire banana-growing region.

2273. On information and belief, in order to operate its banana production in an environment free of labor opposition and social disturbances, Chiquita agreed to a business arrangement whereby the company would pay the AUC a certain amount per box of banana exported, and would help to arm and otherwise support the AUC and other terrorist groups during the period of the killings and other conduct alleged herein. (Testimony of Salvatore Mancuso and H.H. in the Commission of Justice and Peace)

2274. The arrangement between Chiquita and the AUC was not one of duress; in fact, it was the banana companies that approached the AUC to initiate their relationship. Mario Iguaran, then- Attorney General of Colombia, has charged that there was a criminal relationship between Chiquita and the AUC in which Chiquita supplied money and arms to the AUC in return for the "bloody pacification of Urabá."

2275. As part of its deal with Chiquita, the AUC provided protection services to banana plantations, dealing out reprisals against real or suspected thieves, as well as against social undesirables, suspected guerrilla sympathizers or supporters, and anyone who was suspected of opposing the AUC's activities or social program.

2276. By arming and financing the AUC, Chiquita intended to benefit from the AUC's systematic killings of civilians. After its agreement with Chiquita, the AUC understood that one goal of its campaign of terror was to force laborers to work in the plantations. Anyone who disobeyed the order knew what would happen to them. For example, one individual who worked in Chiquita's offices at a plantation in Urabá, was present when paramilitaries arrived at the plantation and summarily executed a banana worker who had been seen as a troublemaker because his slow work held up the production line. Another individual saw paramilitaries arrive to threaten banana workers after a salary dispute. Chiquita's assistance also helped the AUC to gain access to its perceived opponents who worked for the company. José Gehiener Arias Ramirez, a Chiquita employee who was later killed by the AUC, repeatedly witnessed AUC members entering the Chiquita packing house to threaten workers from the Barrio Policarpa, whose residents were viewed as hostile to the AUC.

2277. Carlos Castaño wrote in his book, Mi Confesión, that the unions were strong and "terrifying" before the paramilitaries arrived in Urabá, and that they had turned to crime as well as starting extensive worker strikes. In concert with the army, which assisted banana growers by occupying banana plantations and arresting union leaders or forcing laborers to work during strikes, the AUC undertook an extensive campaign of murdering civilians in order to break the back of the unions. According to Gloria Cuartas, "They pulled out a map where they said which plantations allegedly had a FARC presence and started killing workers and union members, until the organizational structures of the union and the board of Sintrainagro were left totally in the hands of the 'Esperanzados' [the EPL]," a former insurgent group that had been coopted by the paramilitaries.

2278. The stability and social control provided by the AUC was to Chiquita's benefit, in that it minimized the expenses incurred and eliminated disruptions in the exportation of bananas. As a result of the AUC's actions, Chiquita was able to dismantle the social assistance programs to which the banana companies had agreed through negotiations with the unions in the 1980s, thereby lowering costs. The influence of the AUC in the leadership of the banana workers' trade unions was also to Chiquita's benefit, as it reduced labor strife.

2279. As a result of the paramilitaries' intervention, Castaño was able to brag in 2001 that "in the past three years there have been no strikes in the banana-growing region, and the Sintrainagro unions work shoulder-to-shoulder with the employers to promote the [economy of the] zone."

2280. In addition to directly suppressing labor activity, the paramilitaries regulated the banana-growing population and protected Chiquita's profitability by controlling the provision of medical services in the towns of Urabá. Residents of Apartadó reported that they feared seeing doctors because they believed that medical personnel were under the control of the AUC. On information and belief, this arrangement benefited Chiquita because it allowed the paramilitaries to inform the company of its employees' medical issues that could potentially affect labor productivity, including pregnancy. It also allowed the paramilitaries to prevent doctors from certifying worksite injuries or providing medical excuses to workers, which would have raised costs for the company.

G. Chiquita Joined the AUC's Conspiracy to Commit the Acts Alleged Herein

2281. By its conduct, Chiquita joined the AUC's conspiracy to eliminate the FARC through violent attacks on guerrillas and suspected guerrilla sympathizers and terrorization of the civilian population. The killings alleged herein, which constitute war crimes; crimes against humanity; torture; cruel, inhuman and degrading treatment; violations of the rights to life, liberty and security of person and peaceful assembly and association; and terrorism, among other violations of Colombian, New Jersey, Ohio, District of Columbia, United States, and international law, were committed by members of the AUC in furtherance of the conspiracy. Chiquita's actions constituted conspiracy in that (1) two or more members of the AUC agreed to carry out their terrorist campaign against civilians, (2) Chiquita joined the conspiracy knowing of at least one of the goals of the conspiracy and intending to help accomplish it, and (3) one or more of the violations alleged herein was committed by someone who was a member of the conspiracy and acted in furtherance of the conspiracy.

2282. Members of the AUC agreed to fight the FARC by means of illegal violence against particular classes of civilians, thereby constituting a conspiracy of two or more persons who agreed to commit a wrongful act.

2283. The AUC was formed based on agreement between its leaders, government backers, and private supporters, to eliminate the FARC through extermination of guerrillas and suspected guerrilla sympathizers and the systematic terrorization of the civilian population. The AUC purposely targeted civilians, even those with no known ties to the guerrillas. Thus the use of illegal, violent means, including war crimes and extrajudicial killings, was always central to the group's mission and strategies. Chiquita joined the conspiracy knowing that the AUC intended to fight the FARC by means of illegal violence against particular classes of civilians, and intending to help accomplish that goal.

2284. Chiquita began conspiring with the paramilitaries in 1995 or earlier; its first direct payments to the Banana Block of the ACCU were made no later than 1995. Chiquita sought a meeting with the paramilitaries in late 1996 or early 1997, and concluded an agreement with the AUC whereby Chiquita paid the paramilitaries for their services supporting their banana plantations. These services consisted of threatening or killing civilians, including workers who attempted to strike, union leaders, alleged criminals, and small banana farmers who refused to sell or abandon their land. Chiquita knew of the AUC's goal of eliminating the FARC through the killing of suspected sympathizers and innocent civilians.

2285. Chiquita also knew of the AUC's primary tactic of targeting civilians in order to intimidate this population from supporting the FARC.

2286. Chiquita joined the conspiracy intending to benefit from this strategy; the AUC's methods would reduce Chiquita's costs and risk exposure by suppressing labor unrest through the elimination of those who opposed the banana plantations or threatened their profitability.

2287. Chiquita, as a co-conspirator, arranged illegal money payments, smuggled drugs and arms, and facilitated and condoned murders in furtherance of the conspiracy.

2288. The AUC's conduct alleged herein were committed by members of the AUC in furtherance of the conspiracy's goal of fighting the FARC by means of illegal violence against particular classes of civilians.

2289. All of Plaintiffs' decedents were killed by the AUC in furtherance of the conspiracy. Their status as social activists, unionists, alleged criminals, or victims of FARC extortion led to their being suspected by the AUC as FARC supporters or otherwise threats to public order and ultimately to their murders.

H. The AUC Acted as Chiquita's Agent in Committing the Acts Alleged Herein

2290. Chiquita formed an agreement with the AUC, paying them in exchange for their suppression of union activity and elimination of alleged FARC supporters and other undesirables. This agreement specified, among other things, that Chiquita would pay the paramilitaries a fixed dollar amount for each box of bananas exported.

2291. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference ¶¶ 2225-2241, above, detailing the payments made to the AUC from 1995 through February of 2004.

2292. Chiquita intended that the AUC commit the killings and acts alleged herein when it made an agreement with the AUC. In providing the AUC with money and assistance with their arms and drug trafficking, Defendants intended that the AUC obtain arms and continue their practice of killing civilians, especially those civilians who were perceived as threats to the profitability of the banana industry.

2293. The leadership of the AUC did, in fact, carry out killings of union members, social organizers and other undesirable groups knowing that Chiquita expected and intended that they do so using the arms and money provided by Chiquita.

2294. The AUC's conduct alleged herein was committed in furtherance of Chiquita's business.

2295. The AUC solved Chiquita's labor problems and kept down operational costs by killing and/or intimidating any worker that attempted to strike. The paramilitaries also dealt out reprisals against real or suspected thieves and social undesirables, and targeted suspected guerrilla sympathizers or supporters who could have threatened Chiquita's operations, including anyone espousing views that could be characterized as leftist, such as vocal union and community leaders.

2296. The AUC's conduct alleged herein was authorized or subsequently acquiesced in by Chiquita. Chiquita authorized the killings and other conduct alleged herein in advance. The AUC's agreement with Chiquita involved forcing people to work using threats and illegal violence, as well as the quelling of labor and social unrest through the systematic terrorization of the population of Urabá.

2297. Furthermore, Chiquita acquiesced in the AUC's conduct after the fact by continuing to pay them despite full knowledge that their support was being used to carry out the crimes alleged herein.

2298. On information and belief, the monetary payment made by Chiquita and the other support and assistance provided by Chiquita to the AUC contributed to the AUC's ability to flourish and consolidate its power in the regions impacted by the AUC's acts of terror and mayhem. The assistance, financial and otherwise, provided by Chiquita to the AUC, facilitated the AUC's ability to carry out such acts with impunity. The acts of terror and violence were designed to instill fear and control in the regions affected.

I. The harms resulting from Defendant's support continued past 2004.

2299. Defendant's support of the AUC, and the facts and circumstances surrounding the AUC's activities, as alleged in §§ A-H above, resulted in harms which continued after Defendant stopped paying the AUC.

2300. The Defendant has always been the primary developer of the banana growing region of Urabá, and the AUC also originated there. Urabá is still one of Colombia's most violent regions, as well as one of Colombia's main centers for paramilitarism and drug trafficking.

2301. The largest and most powerful paramilitary group in Colombia today is called the Urabeños, and is based in Urabá. It is comprised mainly of former AUC members who did not demobilize in 2005 along with the leadership of the group. The Urabeños are one of dozens of violent drug cartels that emerged in Colombia following the demobilisation of the paramilitary Self-Defence Forces of Colombia (AUC) in 2005. It is led by two brothers who took over following the arrest of the drug lord Daniel Rendon Herrera, also known as Don Mario. Based in Uraba, from where the group gets its name, the Urabeños have embarked on a national expansion with the apparent aim of becoming the biggest drug cartel in Colombia, according to news articles published by the BBC's Colombian correspondent, Jeremy McDermott.[3] The Urabeños still keep several thousand men under arms

2302. In addition to this continuing harm, the Defendant continued to support the AUC and its successor groups, including the Urabeños, for at least three additional years, beyond what Defendant has admitted. This apparently violates Defendant's plea agreement in the associated criminal case in the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia.

2303. Both Freddy Rendon Herrera and his brother, Daniel Rendon Herrera, are indicted in the Southern District of New York in case 08-cr-659, on drug trafficking charges. The extradition of these individuals is a matter of considerable controversy. Daniel Rendon Herrera is accused by the U.S. Department of Justice of re-forming the Elmer Cardenas block of the AUC after it was demobilized in 2005 under the name "Los Paisas," and then renaming it the "Autodefensas Gaitanistas de Colombia." According to the indictment in case 08-cr-659, this group is believed to have shipped some 300 tons of cocaine to the United States between 2005-2007.

2304. The Colombian Fiscalia has found cocaine hidden in Defendant's banana shipments on seven separate occasions. See "A indagatoria, tres directivos norteamericanos de Chiquita Brands Inc.," El Tiempo, Dec. 7, 2009.[4] More than one and a half tons of cocaine have been found hidden in Defendant's produce, valued at over 33 million dollars. Id. Two of the ships on which drugs were found were the named the Chiquita Bremen and the Chiquita Belgie. Id. This shows that the relationship between Defendant and the AUC was one which allowed the AUC easy access to Defendant's port facilities and ships.

2305. On January 16, 2008, a raid on Daniel Rendon Herrera's group by Colombian authorities in Uraba netted hand granades, mortar rounds, Claymore mines, electrical detonators, and 47 AK-47 assault rifles. See "Don Mario, narco ligado a los hermanos Castaño, es ahora el capo más buscado del país," El Tiempo, Feb 9, 2008.[5] Of particular interest to investigators was the fact that the AK-47's could be traced to Otterloo shipment described supra at ¶¶ 773-782. Id. Of the more than 3500 AK-47's brought into Colombia on this ship, only small part have been surrendered to authorities as part of the Justice and Peace program. Id. This is evidence that many, if not most of the weapons imported into Colombia using Defendant's facilities are still in the hands of illegal armed groups today. It also shows a specific link between support provided by Chiquita Brands to the Elmer Cardenas Block of the AUC, as well as its successor organizations under the command of Daniel Rendon Herrera.

2306. Daniel Rendon Herrera did not voluntarily demobilize, as did the other AUC commanders mentioned in this Complaint. When he was finally captured in April 2009, he commanded an estimated 5,000 men under arms.[6] The group has now renamed itself the "Urabeños,", and continues to control and terrorize the region of Urabá.

J. According to the national Colombian prosecutor's office, Defendant continued to financially support the AUC through 2007 using Colombian alter egos.

2307. The Colombian newspaper El Espectador reported that the Defendant continued to finance the AUC from 2004-2007, even while the Defendant was cooperating with an investigation of the U.S. Department of Justice.[7]

2308. The El Espectador article is based on investigative documents leaked to the newspaper from the Colombian Fiscalia, the national prosecutor's office in Colombia (hereinafter "Fiscalia") on July 22, 2008. Id. According to the article, payments were made to AUC front organizations by two Colombian corporations, Invesmar S.A., and Olinsa, S.A., both of which are controlled by Defendant. A financial analyst working for the Fiscalia came to this conclusion by tracing banking transactions of of these organizations, and that of Banacol, S.A. Id. Banacol, S.A. is a Colombian corporation which bought Defendant's assets in Colombia in approximately 2004, and continues to be the primary supplier of Colombian bananas for Defendant. Id. These companies are alter egos of the Defendant.

2309. On November 11-12, 2008, a commission of the Colombian CTI (Cuerpo Tecnico de Investigacion, the national forensic investigative body) conducted a judicially-authorized search of Olinsa, SA's corporate office in Medellin. Id. According to El Espectador's reporting on the Fiscalia's report, Olinsa and Defendant Chiquita Brands did not keep separate bookkeeping systems, and were run as one company. Id.

2310. The El Espectador report is based on leaked documents of the Colombian national prosecutor's office, which should be discoverable through the letters rogatory process. Similarly, Colombian prosecutors involved in that investigation could be deposed or could testify as witnesses at trial.

2311. Olinsa S.A., whose full name is Opción Logística Integral, S.A., is a Colombian corporation formed in April of 2005 by Gloria Andrea Cuervo Torres, an ex-Chiquita Brands employee who was in a position of authority when she worked for Defendant. Ms. Cuervo Torres, along with twelve other Chiquita Brands employees and exemployees, are defendants in an indagatoria in Colombia for their payments to the AUC.[8] See Chiquita sigue en Colombia, supra at n 7.

2312. The following employees or former employees of Defendant are or wee also subjects of the Colombian indagatoria reported in Sept of 2009: Cyrus Freidheim, Charles Keiser, Roderick M. Hills, Robert Olson, Robert Kistinger, Carl H. Lindner, Keith Linder, Cyrus equipment. Id. The Fiscalía discovered that from 2005 to 2008 Chiquita Brands provided more than $5 million U.S. dollars to Olinsa, S.A., and that Olinsa, S.A.'s primary client was Chiquita Brands. An estimated 98% of Olinsa S.A.'s revenue came from Defendant during this period. For example, in 2007, received

$10,981,000 in revenue, of which $10,763,000 were generated by business with Defendant Chiquita Brands. Id.

2313. Olinsa, S.A.'s contracts with Defendant to provide quality control, maintenance and repair of shipping containers, and logistical support to its banana business continue today. Olinsa, S.A. has about 90 employees, in Barranquilla, Urabá, Santa Marta y Medellín. Id.

2314. The same managers who previously ran Banadex, S.A., Defendant's wholly-owned Colombian subsidiary, now run both Banacol, SA and Olinsa, SA., and the latter two corporations loan each other workers as needed. Another corporation called Invesmar S.A. was formed in the British Virgin Islands, and is believed by Colombian prosecutors to be owned by an international conglomerate which also owns Banacol S.A. Id. This conglomerate is called Convite, S.A. Id. The ownership of Invesmar, S.A. by Convite, S.A. is also described in an article in Semana magazine, called "Los parasubsidios," by María Jimena Duzán, Nov. 7, 2009.[9] Semana is a leading news magazine in Colombia.

2315. El Tiempo, the main newspaper in Colombia, reported that on about December 4, 2009, the Colombian Fiscalia notified Thomas Black, an official of the US Department of Justice, that three US citizens had been indicted (notified of an indagatoria) in Colombia, for aggravated conspiracy and for financing the AUC in Colombia.[10] The three men, John Paul Olivo, Charles Dennis Keiser, and Dorn Robert Wenninnger, are employees of Defendant Chiquita Brands. Id. Citing unnamed sources in Washington, the newspaper also reported that the letter rogatory requested information about 19 other employees of the Defendant, who are corporate officers and directors of the Defendant, as well as 4 of Defendant's employees in Central America. Id. The letter was based on inspections of financial records in Colombia, as well as the testimony given by the following AUC leaders: Salvatore Mancuso; Raúl Emilio Hasbún Menzoza; Ever Veloza Garcia, and Freddy Rendón Herrera. Id.

2316. According to another report by the same newspaper,[11] the Colombian Fiscalia has been investigating the Defendant and its employees since at least 2007, when news of the criminal case in the United States was made public. In December of 2007, the Colombian Fiscalia made a formal request for judicial assistance from the U.S. Department of Justice in investigating employees of the Defendant and three other banana companies, in request number 1000007839. Id. The employees are under investigation for aggravated conspiracy and for financing illegal armed groups. Id. The prosecutor responsible for this case, Fiscal #29 in Medellin, named Alicia Dominguez, reported that the Defendant's employees under investigation in 2007 included Robert Fisher, Steven G. Wars, Carl H. Linder, Durk Jaguer, Jeffrey Benjamin, Morten Amtzen, Roderick Hills, Cyrus F. Freidheim and Robert Olson.[12] Reinaldo Escobar de la Hoz, a Banacol, S.A. employee prosecuted for the entry of 5,000 machine guns into Colombia on the Otterloo in 2001, testified in this investigation. 2317. In January of 2009, the Fiscalia sent another request for judicial assistance to the U.S Department of Justice, requesting assistance in investigating 20 high level employees of the Defendant.[13] Included among them is the Defendant's current President, Fernando Aguirre. Id. The letter rogatory, authored by a prosecutor appointed by the Colombian Supreme Court, named the following individuals as the subjects of the request: Cyrus Freidheim, Roderick Hills, Robert Olson, Morten Arntzen, Jefrey Benjamin, Robert Kintinger, James W. Fischer, Carl Linder, Keith Linder, Steve Warshaw, David Ocleshaw, Durk Pager, Jaime Sierra, Steven Stanbrook, Fernando Aguirre, Hill Albrinck, Cyrus F. Freidheim Jr., Mario Méndez, Bill Tsacalis and Alejandro Bakoczy.

2318. The Fiscalia has also requested information related to Defendant's alleged bribery of Colombian customs officials at this port, including the phone calls of John Walker, who was allegedly an employee of Defendant at the Zungo port. Id.

2319. According to a current Banacol employee, when Defendant Chiquita Brands dissolved its Colombian subsidiary, Banadex, the following banana farms in Urabá were sold to Banacol. These farms continue to supply bananas to Defendant Chiquita Brands: Chambacu, Tatiana, Finca, Paraiso, Monterrey # 1, Finca # 1, Monterrey # 2, Monterrey # 3, Maryland, Cibeles, Montecarlo, Yerbazal, Guadalupe, Santa Maria Del Monte, El Reino, La Mariana, Cantarrana, El Carmen, Chispero, La Arrocera, Finca # 4, Trigana # 1, Indira, Finca # 3, San Joaquin # 1, San Joaquin # 2, Juana Pio, Doña Francia, El Salvamento, Las Virginias, La Esperanza, Rita Maria, Durazno, Magdalena, Taparto, Rancho Amelia, Salpicon, Tarena, Guadalupe, Doña Angela, Guaro, Maria Rosario, Villa Alicia, San Jacinto, Manzana, Cafetal, Por Francia, Alex Maria, Diamante, Retiro, Lejania, Finca, Hacienda, Virginias, Trigana, Carmen, Alameda, Negritos, Malagon, Sol

Luna, Arrocera, Caribe, Guaimara l, Lucitania, Sierra Morena, Tabano, Venecia, and Sarzamora.

2320. Until the week of June 15, 2009 employees working on Banacol farms still had employment contracts with Banadex. During this week, the farms' management made a tour of the farms, and at each one, had their employees cancel their old Banadex contracts and sign new ones with Banacol. The contracts did not expire normally at the end of their terms. Benefits programs such as health insurance and pension programs were also transferred from Banadex to Banacol at this time.

2321. In September of 2009, the Director of Banacol, Ruben Caballero, gave about a week's worth of testimony in Medellin in an investigation of the sale of land in Urabá and elsewhere at low prices, apparently under pressure from the AUC. A group of about 500 plaintiffs brought an action against AUC Commander Raul Hasbun, to try to recover their lands. This case has been in court for several years now, and apparently involves Banacol, as well as Raul Hasbun and his company, Uniban.

K. According to the top AUC commander in the Uraba region, Ever Veloza Garcia, Defendant's payments to his unit began in 1995, not in 1997, as Defendant claims.

2322. Ever Veloza Garcia was the top commander of the "Banana Block" which operated in Uraba and was responsible for killing thousands of people. Mr. Veloza demobilized in about 2005, and has given extensive testimony to the Commission of Justice and Peace, including confessing to ordering more than 3000 individual homicides in Uraba, many of which are represented in this case.[14] He is currently serving a lengthy prison sentence in the United States.

[14] Number of homicides quoted in "'H.H' se confiesa," El Espectador, August 2 2008, online at www.elespectador.com. Other sources estimate that HH has confessed to more than 3600 homicides made

2323. In addition to admissions made in his testimony, Mr. Veloza has given numerous interviews to the news media. In the summer of 2009, the Al Jazeera news agency produced an in-depth report about Defendant's role in the AUC's campaign in Colombia.[15] Al Jazeera interviewed Ever Veloza Garcia inside the buiding of the Colombian Fiscalia, immediately one of his appearances appearances in the Commission of Justice and Peace. In his interview with Al Jazeera, Ever Veloza was filmed saying the following:

> "I confessed to 70 murders of unionists in 1995 alone. One of my tasks was to make people work and to avoid strikes against the bosses. There were so many murders already in the area, they wanted to bring the banana region under their control." Id.
> "We arrived in the middle of the violence to lift the burden from the banana companies. They didn't give us money to kill specific individuals, but with the money we were given we bought rifles and ammunition." Id.
> "So the way it was we went to the fields and explained that there was a new law, the law of Carlos Castaño. There were new rules and the law at the time was our law. Strikes that harmed the banana industry's economy were totally forbidden. In a short time, using violence and the power of the rifle, we took away the rights that they had fought for." Id.
> "We didn't force anyone to have us. I mean they came to us voluntarily. Chiquita has already recognized that in the U.S.A." Id.
> "I think they need to act as we are in doing this, because they are more responsible than us. Because they had only one goal, which was money. Thousands murdered. Thousands orphaned, widowed. An area desolated. It was a war. A total war. They are more responsible than us. They have to be put on trial as we are." Id.

2324. Al Jazeera also interviewed two union members on camera, without disclosing their identities. Id. The first said:

by his group in the Uraba region. Thousands more have been confessed by other members of the AUC, including alias El Indio, an AUC commander in Apartado who confessed to approximately 800 murders.

[15] "Chiquita: Between Life and Law," by Juliana Rufus, Al Jazeera, June 10, 2009, online at http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ONCTOiKT42U.

"When the paramilitaries turned up on the plantations, they said, from today we are the law and you have to do what we say. They would come and grab someone. They would tie his hands and feet, sometimes use chainsaws, pliers, to break them into pieces so they would speak. Pull their nails out so they would speak. Witnesses have said that those being tortured would speak. People were frightened and they would give up a name, thinking that the paramilitaries would let them go, they would invent anything." Id.

The second union member said:

"The question is, where did the money to pay the paramilaries come from? Our wages were reduced. The money came from our wages. We were paying for the people who were killing us."

2325. Ever Veloza Garcia also gave a video interview with Hollman Morris (HM), a Colombian journalist, in which he described how a system was devised in 1997 to launder payments through private security companies which acted asfront organizations, for the AUC.[16] According to Veloza Garcia, prior to that time, payments had been made directly to the Castaño brothers, who led the AUC, in cash. In this interview, Ever Veloza (EVG) said:

EVG Banana companies paid up until the time when we demobilized because as I said in... I believe Convivir started in Uraba in ‘97 and through it, payments from banana companies to Self Defenses became legal, and they paid up until the day when we demobilized, that is to say all, of the banana companies paid, and that is not so just because we affirm it, there are the accounting records of Convivir, showing all of the payments by banana companies.

HM They all knew that they were paying the paramilitary groups?

EVG Of course.

HM Mr. Veloza, something that calls my attention is the subject of Convivir, who, who is, let’s say, the person who says “OK, here we have to... we need to create Convivir?

EVG Raul Hasbun.

[16] Contravia, Holman Morris' taped inteview with Ever Veloza, December 2008, online at http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=wIYpGIHq9YQ

HM Uhuh.

EVG Raul Hasbun was a businessman, from a family of banana growers, who joined the Self Defenses. When he joined the Self Defenses he said that the payments had to be legalized so that the companies would not encounter legal problems in the future. Convivir had been created recently and we took advantage of that legal entity to launder the moneys for the Self Defenses.

HM In what year was that?

EVG 97.

HM Year 1997. So then, what is the banana growers' strategy, start boosting Convivir?

EVG No, Convivir was created by ("Pedro") Raul Hasbun, and banana companies made payments to Convivir, the payments that had previously been made to the Castaños, are now made directly to Convivir as a Security service, a legal service.

HM Forgive me for insisting on this subject but it is very important. Did all of the banana growers in Uraba know that the payments needed to be legalized through Convivir?

HH Banana growers knew that they were paying us, it was the banana growers who brought the AUC into Uraba, and the banana grower always paid the AUC, consciously knowing that it was the AUC.

HM But those same banana growers were negotiating with politicians to provide political support?

HH No, Convivir was something very easy to set up, very easy, and as Pedro did it so easily, it was decided that they would be set up to operate legally from a financial standpoint, so Convivir remained; they were established by the AUC to collect funds.

HM Any Antioquia politician, who was doing politics in Uraba, who wanted votes in Uraba, had to know that Convivir was a façade of the paramilitarism?

HH In Uraba everybody knew that Convivir was a façade for the paramilitarism.

2326. On September 26, 2008, Ever Veloza testified about payments made from Defendant during the years 1995-1996, in response to questions asked of him in the Commmision of Justice and Peace. This was in his trial for the murders of Walter de Jesus Borja David and Elmer Antonio Urquijo Beltran, the heirs of whom are represented by counsel in the instant Complaint. Ever Veloza confessed to these murders, and also confirmed that Defendant Chiquita Brands paid the Bloque Bananero of the AUC beginning in 1995. According to a transcript from this hearing, Ever Veloza said: "It was no secret to anyone that the banana companies supported us from when we made incursions into the zone of Uraba, equally, North American companies like Chiquita Brands among others, and this was happening since 1995."

L. Another important AUC commander in the Uraba region, Raul Hasbun, denies that Chiquita was extorted by the AUC.

2327. Emilio Raul Hasbun Mendoza (hereinafter "Raul Hasbun") was another top-level commander of the AUC in Uraba, who led the Frente Arlex Hurtado, one of two fronts of the Banana Block of the AUC. He was roughly equal in importance to Ever Veloza Garcia, with Veloza in charge of the northern half of Uraba, and Hasbun in charge of the south. Raul Hasbun is also the heir to his father's enormous banana business in Colombia, called Uniban, and until his incarceration, functioned as its chief executive officer. Raul's father Pedro established his company in the Magdalena region of Colombia decades ago. When Chiquita relocated its business center to Uraba, the Hasbun family also moved their business to Uraba. Raul Hasbun demobilized from the AUC in November of 2004.

2328. Raul Hasbun was the person who worked with Defendant to set up a system of front organizations to attempt to legitimize what had heretofore been off-the-books, cash payments. In a telephone interview with Steven Dudley of the Miami Herald,[17] Raul Hasbun said "I am the one who established the system" of banana companies paying the AUC through convivir front organizations set up for that purpose. He stated that all the banana companies paid the AUC, and that he has the checks to prove it. "But there came a time when I no longer had to ask." Id. The article continues:

> "I killed a lot of union members," Hasbún said flatly. "But I didn't kill them because they were part of a union. I killed them because they were working with the guerrillas or they were guerrillas." The system of having banana-producing companies pay for the paramilitaries came together during a meeting in late 1996 in Medellín, Hasbún said. Among those attending, he said, was a high-level U.S. official of Chiquita who regaled the paramilitary chiefs with stories of his time as a soldier in Vietnam. "Is that something someone who is being extorted does?" Hasbún asked. "He loved telling these stories." Id.

2329. During his testimony in the Commission of Justice and Peace during the summer of 2009, Raul Hasbun was asked the following question: "Ever Veloza says that the Banana Block was financed by Chiquita Brands not only between 1997 and 2004, as they admit, but also in 1995 and 1996. What do you know about this?" Mr. Hasbun asserted his right to remain silent, the only time he did so in any of his testimony. After asserting this right, the prosecuting judge advised Mr. Hasbun that his benefits under the Law of Justice and Peace would be jeopardized if he did not tell the whole truth, and that this would be the result of asserting his right to remain silent. Hasbun still declined to respond.

2330. Raul Hasbun has stated on another occasion that he expects to be out of jail in a few years, and that it is not in his interest to harm his friends in the banana industry by testifying against them.

[17] "Colombian paramilitary tells how he financed his own Murder Inc.: bananas," by Steven Dudley, The Miami Herald, 3/21/2009.

2331. Raul Hasbun has also stated that Chiquita's payments to the AUC were entirely voluntary, and that if Chiquita had not paid, the AUC would not have retaliated against them.

2332. In other testimony in the Commission of Justice and Peace, Raul Hasbun described the entry of 4,200 assault rifles (believed to be AK-47's), which he received through the Zungo port, which was, at least in part, controlled by the Defendant.[18] This was a separate shipment from the Otterloo shipment, which involved a ship owned by Defendant, in which thousands of AK-47s were delivered to another AUC commander Freddy Rendon Herrera. Id. These arms shipments through Chiquita's port facilities show, at a minimum, that the AUC had unchecked access to Defendant's property.

2333. In other testimony given in the Commission of Justice and Peace during the summer of 2009, Raul Hasbun admitted that his unit was financed by charging a tax of $50 per kilogram of cocaine passing through territory he controlled. One half of the tax was paid to the Casa Castano, or the central command of the AUC, and the other half was kept for local expenditures.

2334. In a large number of the cases in the instant complaint, the victims were taken onto property owned by Raul Hasbun and his family, and executed there. The Uniban banana company is owned by Raul Hasbun and other members of his family.

2335. According to information we have received during our investigation, approximately 30-50 young men were abducted and forced to unload Mr. Hasbun's containers onto trucks. The men were then taken to an AUC camp in Taraza, Antioquia, where they were disappeared. Plaintiffs' counsel represent the heirs of at least one of the disappeared individuals.

2336. Víctor Manuel Henríquez, a member of the Board of Directors of Banacol, S.A., has testified in court that his sister is married to one of the sons of AUC commander Raul Hasbun. "Chiquita sigue en Colombia," supra. By making payments to the AUC and emergent paramilitary groups between 2004-2007, as alleged in the El Espectador report, by purchasing all of Chiquita's assets in 2004, and by being Defendant's exclusive supplier of bananas from the Uraba region since 2004, Banacol has acted as Defendant's alter ego since 2004.

M. AUC commander Fredy Rendon Herrera, has made statements in court proceedings demonstrating how Defendant's support of the Bannana Block affected a wider geographic area.

2337. Freddy Rendon Herrera, alias "El Aleman," was overall commander of the Elmer Cardenas Block of the AUC, which operated in rural parts of Uraba and Choco. The Elmer Cardenas Block was formed after the Banana Block, and received men, training, and assistance from the Banana Block, which was in the pay of the Defendant. Id.

2339. Freddy Rendon Herrera has described, in his testimony to the Commission of Justice and Peace, how his unit, the Elmer Cardenas Block, was started with assistance from Raul Hasbun. According to Freddy Rendon, one of the first units in his block was the Frente Pedro Ponte. Id. Pedro Ponte is an alias used by Raul Hasbun. This front consisted of men formerly under the command of Raul Hasbun, and acted as a nucleus for the nascient Elmer Cardenas front. Id.

2340. Members of the Banana Block were also used as trainers for the Elmer Cardenas block, teaching members not only military tactics, but also terror tactics, such as how to cut a human body into quarters - a technique used in several of the cases alleged herein. For example, alias "Platino" and alias "Rosso" of the Banana Block organized the escuela Gabriela White in Dabeiba, where many of the incidents alleged herein occurred.

2341. On about November 25, 2009, Freddy Rendon Herrera confessed to receiving approximately 3,000 AK-47 machine guns, and about 5,000,000 cartridges for them, from the Otterloo shipment, in his testimony in the Commission of Justice and Peace.[19] The Commission of Justice and Peace determined that on Nov, 5, 2001, the Otterloo arrived at the Zungo port in Carepa, in Uraba, loaded with 14 containers of arms and ammunition from El Rama, a port in Nicaragua. Id. The Otterloo and the Zungo port were under the effective control of Defendant Chiquita Brands at the time, and on information and belief, the Otterloo was owned by one of Defendants' corporate officers.

2342. Freddy Rendon also described how his incursion into the Choco region was supported by the 17th Brigade of the Colombian army, which among other things, transported his men by boat. Freddy Rendon testified about meeting with the police commander in Quibdo, the capital of the Choco department, along with Raul Hasbun in order to obtain the cooperation of the Choco police in their Choco campaign. Id. This shows that the state action element can also be met with respect to the activities of the Elmer Cardenas Block.

VI. GENERAL ALLEGATIONS

2343. At all times, Defendants knew or should have known that the AUC was a violent paramilitary organization continually engaging in vicious crimes and human rights violations against civilians in Colombia, including extrajudicial killing, torture, and forced disappearances. The acts described herein were inflicted under color of law and under color of official authority, and/or in conspiracy with, and/or in a joint criminal enterprise with, and/or in concert with, and/or on behalf of those acting under color of official authority. The AUC has carried out its activities with both the tacit approval and active cooperation of official government security forces pursuant to the overall war strategy of the Colombian government. Moreover, high ranking officials from across the Colombian government have been implicated in paramilitary collaboration, including at least fourteen current members of Congress, seven former lawmakers, the head of the secret police, mayors, and former governors. Furthermore, Chiquita's payments to the AUC were facilitated by Convivir, which are licensed by and operate with the express authority of the government.

2344. The acts described herein were conducted in the course of an internal armed conflict as part of the Colombian government's war strategy. The AUC and other paramilitaries were parties to this armed conflict who engaged in combat with guerrilla armies on behalf of the government; they committed the abuses against Plaintiffs and decedents as part of their prosecution of this conflict. The AUC and other paramilitaries were also engaged in this conflict in partnership with the Colombian military. The acts described herein were part of a widespread and systematic attack by the paramilitaries against the civilian population of the banana-growing region, as well as against several discrete sub-populations, including but not limited to leftist politicians, labor organizers, community activists, persons considered socially undesirable, and perceived guerrilla sympathizers. This attack spanned a large swath of land in Colombia, resulted in the deaths of thousands of individuals, and was directed by a centrally -commanded paramilitary organization. On information and belief, at all relevant times Chiquita had knowledge of this attack..

2345. The defendants' acts had a substantial effect upon the success of the violations of Colombian, US and international law.

2346. The defendants were aware that their acts and omissions assisted in the violations of Colombian, US and international law.

2348. The acts and injuries to Plaintiffs and decedents described herein were part of a pattern and practice of systematic human rights violations requested, paid for, ordered, confirmed, aided and abetted, and/or ratified by Chiquita and/or committed in conspiracy with the AUC.

2349. As a direct and proximate result of Chiquita's unlawful conduct, Plaintiffs have suffered and will continue to suffer harm including pain and suffering, personal injuries, property damages, harm to their livelihoods, and extreme and severe mental anguish and emotional distress. Plaintiffs are thereby entitled to general and compensatory damages in amounts to be proven at trial.

2350. Plaintiffs' causes of action arise under and constitute torts under the Torture Victims Protection Act, 28 U.S.C. § 1350, note.

2351. Legal action by Plaintiffs in Colombia would be futile. None of the Defendants live there, with the possible exception of Joel Raymer, whose Linkedin page states that he moved to Colombia within the last few months. In June 2004, Chiquita sold its Colombian subsidiary Banadex. On information and belief, Chiquita no longer owns any production operations in Colombia and is not subject to service there. Furthermore, the political and legal system in Colombia is characterized by virtual impunity for the crimes of paramilitaries and those who assist them. The vast majority of arrest warrants for paramilitary leaders are never carried out, and when such figures are arrested they are frequently released or allowed to escape from security facilities. Military officers accused of collaboration with paramilitaries are routinely exonerated or given token sentences by military courts. Prosecutors, investigators, and judicial officials who pursue cases of human rights abuses implicating paramilitaries are subject to death threats and assassinations, and many have had to resign or flee the country as a result.

2352. Legal action by Plaintiffs in Colombia would also result in serious reprisals. Individuals who seek redress for paramilitary crimes committed against them or their family members are regularly targeted for further retributive violence.

2353. Chiquita took actively concealed its payments and other forms of support to the AUC.

2354. This concealment had the effect of preventing plaintiffs from learning that Chiquita was responsible for their injuries. Plaintiffs were unaware of Chiquita's support of the AUC until shortly after Chiquita's guilty plea in March of 2007.

2355. Chiquita's concealment of its role in Plaintiffs' injuries prevented Plaintiffs from filing their claims at an earlier date.

2356. Plaintiffs were additionally unable to bring suit in Colombia or the United States until 2007 due to the poor security situation and the danger of reprisals, to which Chiquita's support of the AUC contributed.

2357. Several of the AUC paramilitary units active in the banana-growing region, including the Bloque Elmer Cárdenas, did not demobilize until 2006.

2358. Throughout this period, paramilitaries continued to kill and make threats against civilians in the banana-growing region. In 2006, several human rights workers received death threats, including lawyers challenging paramilitary violence.

FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF

(Extrajudicial Killing)

2359. The allegations set forth in the above paragraphs are re-alleged and incorporated by reference as if fully set forth herein.

2361. The conduct alleged herein constitute extrajudicial killings in violation of the Torture Victim Protection Act, Pub.L. 102–256, H.R. 2092, 106 Stat. 73 (enacted March 12, 1992), 28 U.S.C. § 1350 note.

2362. The AUC committed acts of extrajudicial killing in that they carried out deliberate killing of Plaintiffs' decedents not authorized by a previous judgment pronounced by a regularly constituted court affording all the judicial guarantees which are recognized as indispensable by civilized peoples.

2363. Defendants are liable to Plaintiffs in that they aided and abetted, directed, ordered, requested, paid, were reckless in dealing with, participated in a joint criminal enterprise with, confirmed, ratified, were the principals of, and/or conspired with the AUC, which was acting under color of law by collaboration with the Colombian military, to bring about the extrajudicial killings committed against Plaintiffs.

2364. The AUC's killings were carried out deliberately as part of the role assigned to them by the Colombian State to repress support of the FARC, but unauthorized by a judgment pronounced by any court

2365. As alleged above, AUC acted as a government in and of itself and its relationship with the government made it a state actor in Colombia.

2366. The AUC killed Plaintiffs' decedents as part of the Colombian state policy of intimidating civilians from supporting the FARC. The AUC committed many of these murders in the presence of family members or other community members, or they subsequently reported to the family that they were responsible for the killings. They openly killed civilians and discussed such killings in public in order to intimidate and threaten others.

2367. While the state supported the AUC in these efforts, they did not authorize them to commit these killings through a court judgment. In fact, AUC leaders have stated that the military would give them names of alleged guerrillas to kill when the state did not have enough evidence to prosecute the individuals through Colombian courts.

2368. None of decedents was killed pursuant to any judicial process at all.

2369. Killing plaintiffs' decedents was part of the general strategy of the AUC. Through these murders, the AUC intended to deter others from expressing views that could be construed as supporting the FARC or their ideology.

SECOND CLAIM FOR RELIEF

(Torture)

2370. The allegations set forth in the above paragraphs are re-alleged and incorporated by reference as if fully set forth herein.

2371. The conduct alleged herein constitute torture in violation of the Torture Victim Protection Act, Pub.L. 102–256, H.R. 2092, 106 Stat. 73 (enacted March 12, 1992), 28 U.S.C. § 1350 note.

2372. The AUC committed acts of torture in that they intentionally caused Plaintiffs and their decedents to suffer severe mental or physical pain or suffering for the purpose of punishing, intimidating or coercing Plaintiffs and their decedents.

2373. Defendants are liable to Plaintiffs in that they aided and abetted, directed, ordered, requested, paid, were reckless in dealing with, participated in a joint criminal enterprise with, confirmed, ratified, were the principals of, and/or conspired with the AUC, which was acting under color of law by collaboration with the Colombian military, to bring about the extrajudicial killings committed against Plaintiffs.

2374. Plaintiffs' decedents were in the custody of the AUC when they were tortured and killed. In many cases, family members of various next of kin witnessed AUC members seeking out their relatives and executing them. Others were removed from the banana farms and executed by the AUC, who later told their family members about the killings. The AUC had effective control of Plaintiffs' decedents by use of their weapons.

2375. The AUC caused the decedents severe mental and physical pain in their torture and execution.

2376. The AUC caused the Plaintiffs severe mental and physical pain in witnessing or learning of the murders of their family members. Individual Plaintiffs also experienced suffering in being threatened against pursuing an investigation of the death, being forced to flee the area, and feeling threatened and frightened that the AUC would also target them.

2377. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference ¶¶ 2204-2224 of this complaint, detailing the AUC's relationship with the government and the AUC's role as a state actor in Colombia.

2378. The AUC used torture against civilians to intimidate them from providing support to guerrillas. The AUC would often force its victims to disclose names of other potential guerrilla supporters. They took workers from the plantations and tortured them to the point that many would invent stories and names in the hope that the paramilitaries would let them go. Two union leaders reported that the paramilitaries would use tactics such as tying the worker's hands and feet, using chainsaws or pliers to break them to pieces, and pulling out their nails. On information and belief, the torture of Plaintiffs and decedents was intended to accomplish this goal.
